BOYS IN POLICE COURT.

Lui Smith Did Quite a Business in Bicycles Here.

Two alleged youthful offenders appeared before Judge Wilcox yesterday morning for sentence. Harry Chilton, a boy of fifteen, was called to answer a charge of larceny in the second degree, being accused of pilfering from of Central Union Church will the clothes of bathers at Waikiki. The judge, at the request of defendant's attorney, allowed the case to go over until the 20th instant.

Lui Smith, who has been doing a lively business in bicycle trading for the past few days, was brought before the court to give an account of his business methods. The boy first stole a ladies' wheel, and traded it off for a man's. He sold the second wheel, and then stole one belonging to Dr. Clark. While riding the last e California mules, a stump pul- acquisition around the streets he was as a number of engines and boil- arrested by a detective who had been offered for sale by Brewer & trailing him.
